

I am concerned about media consolidation and the power over the many that can end up in the hands of the few. Media has the power to sway public opinion. Consequently, the FCC should be certain that it doesn't allow any one group to become too dominant.

The public interest is served and the concept of democracy preserved when the FCC limits the power of license owners by restricting size or coverage area.

I believe America will lose strength if we don't protect our locally owned media. I am alarmed by reports that one group, Sinclair broadcasting, will be able to reach , and therefore have influence over, so many Americans. Thank you, Robin Shield
